VE Day

8 May 1945 – VE (Victory in Europe) Day – was one that remained in the memory of all those who witnessed it. It meant an end to nearly six years of a war that had cost the lives of millions; had destroyed homes, families, and cities; and had brought huge suffering and privations to the populations of entire countries.

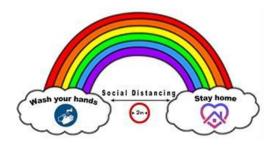

On 8 May 1945 millions of people across the world celebrated Allied victory in Europe. But VE Day did not signal an end to the Second World War. Allied servicemen who had fought their way through Europe prepared for their transfer to the Far East and the Pacific, where fighting would continue for three more months.

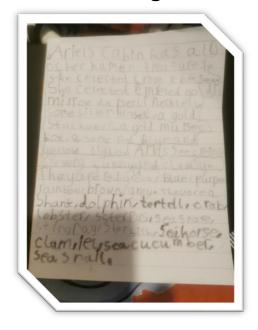

Today, we celebrate 75 years since VE Day. Many people had planned street parties and days out prior to lockdown. However, lots are still planning to mark the occasion with bunting and baking; watching information on TV or listening to the radio. Email photos and accounts of how you celebrated this event.

School Provision

I would like to say an enormous thank you to all of our parents and carers for keeping your children at home where you can. We appreciate how difficult this is, especially as the weeks roll on. However, if you are a key worker and do not have anyone at home to care for your children while you work, please contact the school to arrange provision. I know that you are all trying your best to stay home so that you, your children and staff in school are able to stay safe.
